AUDITOR CHAMBERLAIN.

The New Official Will Assume His Office Next Monday.

On Monday Mr. C. C. Chamberlain will commence his work as Auditor of Washington county. Mr. Chamberlain is so well known to the people of Marietta and vicinity that it would be difficult to relate anything of the gentleman's life that the public does not already know. Mr. Chamberlain was born in Marietta in the year 1863. As a boy he attended the public schools of the city and afterwards the Academy. His father, Judge L. W. Chamberlain, served in this county as County Surveyor and as Probate Judge while Mr. Chamberlain was yet a boy. Mr. Chamberlain himself has never before been a candidate for office but has served for twelve years, with great efficiency, as assistant post master in the Marietta office. He served in that capacity from 1881 to '84 and again from 1890 to '98. Mr. Chamberlain resides with his father at 512 Sixth street and has many close friends in the city and county.

Mr. George O. Bowers, who has served as deputy auditor with such efficiency for the last five years, will continue, we are pleased to say, to serve in that capacity.

BOND FORFEITED.

Case of State of Ohio vs. Lyman H. Dye, Indicted for Forgery.

In the case State of Ohio vs. Lyman H. Dye which came before the court Friday the bond given for defendant's appearance signed by his mother, Henrietta Dye, was forfeited for his non-appearance. The amount of the bond was $300. It will be remembered that on the 19th day of May last, the defendant was arraigned before Mayor Sykes for forging on the complaint of R. O. Schmidt. The defendant was charged with unlawfully and falsely making and forging and counterfeiting a written order for goods. The words of the order were: "Marietta Grocery Co., Let L. H. Dye have what he wants and I will stand good for it." John Wilking.

Dye was bound over to court by Mayor Sykes and released on $300 bail.

An Essay on Habit.

A schoolmaster once said to his pupils that the boys who would make the best piece of composition in five minutes on "How to overcome habit," he would give a prize. When the five minutes had expired, a lad of nine years stood up and said—"Well, sir, habit is hard to overcome. If you take off the first letter it does not change 'abit.' If you take off another you still have a 'bit' left. If you take off still another, the whole of 'it' remains. If you take off another it is not totally used up, all of which goes to show that if you want to get rid of a habit you must throw it off altogether." Result—He won it.

New Game Laws.

Following are new game laws which will, in all probability, be adopted: Book agents may be killed from October 1 to September 1; Spring poets from March 1 to June 1; scandal-mongers from April 1 to February 1; umbrella borrowers from August 1 to November 1 and February 1 to May 1; while every man who accepts a newspaper for two years, and, upon being presented the bill, says, "I never ordered it," may be killed upon the spot without reserve and buried face downward with out the benefit of an elegy.

Boys' Brigade.

The Boys' Brigade held its first meeting at the First Baptist Church Friday evening. Twenty-nine were present and one hour was spent in drilling. They expect to meet again next Friday and effect a permanent organization which will require at least thirty-five members. All boys admitted who are four feet and six inches or over in height.

Dangerous Kidney Diseases.

Celery King has cured me of kidney disease. The doctor feared Bright's disease, and tried many remedies that gave me no help. Celery King has made me as well as ever in my life, and it seems almost as though a miracle had been wrought in my case.—John O. Belcher, Springfield, Pa.

The Status of Affairs

—AT THE—

Capital of the Nation.

To the Leader.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13.—President McKinley has presided over two cabinet meetings since his return to Washington, and besides disposing of all the accumulated routine business has answered the French proposals regarding China, submitted last week, agreeing to several of them, which were really only a restatement of our own policy, and disagreeing with others. There was incidentally, some political talk and comparing of notes at these cabinet meetings, and the President's callers have also given him considerable political information. Taken altogether, there is probably no man in the country who has a more accurate knowledge of the political situation today than the President has. The result of that knowledge is that to the few to whom he will talk political politics he expresses absolute confidence in his re-election by a larger electoral vote than he received four years ago and in the election of a republican majority of the House. That same confidence is expressed by every republican of prominence who has been in Washington recently. The old party is aroused and it going to win.

The necessity for increasing and re-organizing the regular army in order to put it upon a basis in keeping with changed conditions and up-to-date needs, is strongly urged in the annual report of Gen. John R. Brooke, commander of the military district of the east, made public by the War Department this week. For years this necessity has existed and has been pointed out by officers of the army, and the war with Spain made it plain to even the most unobservant. The country has long ago outgrown both the size and the organization of the regular army, and the demand for a change is not militarism, as some democrats insist, but common sense. As Gen. Brooke points out, the regular army is the bulwark behind which the volunteer army is organized in time of war. In this connection it may be well to call attention to Mr. Bryan's recent assertion that it was the policy of the republican administration to concentrate the army near great cities for the purpose of overawing the working men. The statement is both ridiculous and false. There is no considerable force of U. S. troops near any city big or little, the most of the regulars being stationed at the coast fortifications and the number is so small that official reports have called attention to the rusting of expansion guns because there are not enough men to keep them in good condition.

First assistant Postmaster General Johnson, who made a flying trip to New Jersey this week, reports the republicans of the state to be aggressive and confident. He states that notwithstanding all the howling of democrats about trusts they are running several men for Congress in that state who were connected with the most notorious trusts ever organized. Mr. Johnson has no personal doubt about the electoral votes of New Jersey being cast for McKinley and Roosevelt.

Among President McKinley's callers this week was Mr. J. C. Abreu, a young Manila lawyer who has come to the United States to attend one of our law schools because he is satisfied that the Philippines are going to be permanently kept by the United States and that American methods will be introduced in the islands. He says the recent spasmodic fighting on the part of the insurgents is the last stand of Aguinaldo and his followers and was planned for its effect upon the Presidential campaign in this country, with the hope that by making a few attacks here and there the American people would believe that the insurrection still existed and would be indefinitely continued. He was very positive in President McKinley's peace would be saying that with the re-election of permanently restored; also that the better element among the Filipinos were perfectly satisfied with the course pursued by this government since it acquired the ownership of the Philippines, and believed that the islands would be much better off in the end under American control than under any other. He was inclined to treat the assertion of Sixto Lopez, who claims to be Aguinaldo's agent, that he came to the United States to acquaint the people with existing conditions in the Philippines, as ridiculous, inasmuch as Lopez has not been near the Philippines for three years and therefore can have no personal knowledge of present or recent conditions there.

It is not likely that the republican National Committee will make the slightest effort to carry Virginia, although President McKinley was assured by three prominent Virginians, Park Agnew, R. I. Thorpe and C. M. Gibson—that if the same efforts were made in the state that are being made in West Virginia and other states it could be carried. They told the President that the business men of the State, especially those interested in large enterprises, would gladly see him re-elected because they know a good thing when they have it, and do not wish to see any change in the national administration or policy.

MADAME HERRMANN.

The Queen of Magic, at the Auditorium, Wednesday, October 17th. Mme. Herrmann, with blonde hair falling over a magnificent gold brocade gown, floats out upon the stage attended by two Oriental slaves, and gives the most artistic magical performance ever given on any stage. Professor Herrmann, the man, surprised the world with his performances, but Madame Herrmann, the woman, not only surprises, but attracts with her grace and fascinates with the beauty of her presentation. Her figure is supple and lithe, and her every gesture graceful. The charm of her personality permeates every act. While in the art of magic Prof. Herrmann may have had no peer, certainly the presentation of his art before the public was vastly inferior to that of the Madame.

Upon the appearance of the madam upon the stage a pretty Glesha girl gathered up her tea gown and fled, leaving an upturned Japanese parasol in the middle of the stage. The madam glides forward and waves a sheet of paper over it, deftly curving the paper into a cornucopia and showers heaps of flowers into the upturned parasol until they overflow in a wealth of color upon the stage. Then she discovers some empty receptacles and smiles upon the wondering Glesha girl and Indian slave. Even out of the atmosphere she creates a tea party, with coffee, cream, loaf sugar, which the slave passes to the usher and circulates among the ladies of the audience.

From a piece of paper and two metal hoops she makes a tambourine, waving it before the audience she takes therefrom great streams of colored ribbon until the front of the stage is heaped with masses of it. She gathers an armful of the ribbon from the floor and throws it with a playful gesture into the air and it changes into scores of beautiful flowers which float down and change the stage into a flower garden. Management of L. M. Luchs.

A gorgeous spectacular and scenic production of Uncle Tom's Cabin will be given at the Auditorium, Friday, October 19th, by Al. W. Martin's famous company, undoubtedly the strongest organization that has ever appeared in this famous old drama. Uncle Tom's Cabin has been presented more times than any other five plays ever written, and it still draws crowded houses everywhere. Mr. Martin, the proprietor of this company, after a considerable search and expense secured the original manuscript, and presents it in a manner that merits commendation. A better production of the piece has never been seen. The entire stage production from start to finish is carried by the company, and among other notable scenes includes the great $500 picture of the New Orleans slave mart. The specialties introduced by the colored people are numerous and amusing. An elaborate street parade will be made at 11 o'clock a. m. Prices 10, 20, 30 and 50 cents. M. G. SEIPEL, Mgr.

HOYT'S "A HOLE IN THE GROUND" Hoyt's "A Hole in the Ground," in which the author has endeavored to show the joyousness of living, will be seen here at a very early date. All of Mr. Hoyt's productions have been presented here with a fine cast; but the company that will present this, the funniest work of this popular playwright, is said to be the strongest and most versatile ever put together. It includes many of the original cast. Management of L. M. Luchs.

INNES AND HIS BAND COMING SOON.

Innes is said to be established as the leader of one of the greatest bands in the world. This shows what fame can do for a man and how stinky she is with her favors. In the world of band music there must be a thousand tombstones marking the graves of buried genius, whose trumpets were not blown loud enough to arrest the attention of the busy world.

Innes wooed fame when he astonished the world with his performance on the trombone. When he laid down the trombone for the baton, fame lent him at once all the dazzle of his old achievements. In organizing his band he has displayed his old originality of invention. This band is probably instrumentally different from every organization of its kind. It is not "brassy." Its tone in fact reminds the hearer of a fine symphony orchestra. Its work is different, Innes' programmes being rare combinations of the classics, quaint melodies and sensational band effects.

Management of L. M. LUCHS.

Manager Luchs announces that after long negotiation, he has finally secured Mr. Charles Frohman's company which will present to our theatregoers the beautiful comedy "The Little Minister." The success attained by this play is well known, and has caused much comment. The mere announcement of its appearance will undoubtedly be sufficient to create a demand for seats that will cause every one to be sold before the day set for the performance.

A Common Danger.

If you have ever had a cold which you permitted to "wear away" it may interest you to know it was a dangerous proceeding. Every cold and cough which is neglected paves the way for consumption, bronchitis, asthma or catarrh. Gas Explosion.

Yesterday morning Mr. Amos Wright, Turnkey at the city prison, went to light the gas in the furnace at the prison and threw in a piece of lighted paper. In some way the gas had been left on and an explosion followed. Mr. Wright was burned slightly around the eyes and his hair was singed.

Genesee Pure Food Co., LeRoy, N. Y. Gentlemen—Our family realize so much from the use of GRAIN-O that I feel I must say a word to induce others to use it. If people are interested in their health and the welfare of their children they will use no other beverage. I have used them all, but GRAIN-O I have found superior to any, for the reason that it is solid grain. Yours for health. C. F. MYERS. 3
